

substantially identical size and shape and comprising a straight, connecting portion attached to the edge of the flat back portion at a slight angle to provide a desired vault, said connecting portion terminating in a crimp portion from which an open curved end portion extends outwardly, each haptic being attached in spaced apart intermediate positions on the edge of said back portion;

a first haptic facing clockwise, a second haptic facing counterclockwise and a third haptic being attached close to the point of attachment of one of the other two haptics, but facing the opposite direction, the lens being insertable into the eye through an incision of the same size as the smallest diameter of the lens.

* * * * *

10

15

20

25

30

35

40

45

50

55

60

65